OLD-TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Luster to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

For generations Sage and Sulphur have been used for hair and scalp troubles. Almost every one knows the value of such a combination for keeping the hair a good even color, for curing dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair, and for promoting the growth of the hair. Years ago the only way to get a Hair Tonic of this kind was to make it in the home, which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays, almost any up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully prepared in perfectly equipped laboratories.

An ideal preparation of this sort is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for scalp troubles and thin, weak hair that is losing its color or coming out. After using this remedy for a few days, you will notice the color gradually coming back, your scalp will feel better, the dandruff will soon be gone, and in less than a month's time there will be a wonderful difference in your hair.

Don't neglect your hair if it is full of dandruff, losing its color or coming out. Get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and use what a few days' treatment will do for you. All druggists sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. James O'Donnell.

FIVE ARE KILLED WHEN DIRIGIBLE BURSTS IN AIR

Melvin Vaniman, His Brother and Crew Are Plunged Into the Sea.

3,000 WITNESS ACCIDENT

Atlantic City Crowds Gather and Watch Rescuers Go to Spot in Boats.

Atlantic City, July 2.—While three thousand people looked on from the beach and the Boardwalk this morning the big dirigible balloon Akron, built by Melvin Vaniman to attempt the passage of the Atlantic, was shattered by an explosion, burst into flame and plunged with its crew of five men, including Vaniman and his younger brother, Calvin, into the sea. The other three were Fred Elmer, Walter Guest, and George Bourdillon. All of them were killed. The accident happened about 6:30 o'clock, half a mile off shore, over Absecon Inlet.

The dirigible was sailing at a height of 1,000 feet and had been in the air since 4:30 o'clock. She was a queer, old-fashioned, bulky craft, with a long, narrow, box-like body, and a large, round, balloon-like envelope, due to heating by the sun's rays.

The gas bag was rent near the middle. Then there was a burst of flame that for the space of ten seconds, perhaps, seemed to hide the airship from view. Next the wreck, outlined against the eastern sky, was seen falling like a plummet.

Car's Downward Plunge.

The understructure, or car, in which were perched the unfortunate men, held in by a wash word put on after the second trip of the balloon three weeks ago, broke away from the envelope. It upended, the bow turning first in a slow arc. Then reversed suddenly and plunged downward. Directly above, twisting in a long spiral, was the gas bag, a smoking mass of rubber and silk, with flames shooting out from a dozen sections as it collapsed. It flattered a moment, and then streaked down after the car.

In the descent, something which appeared to be the body of a man shot out to the left of the wreckage and hit the water before the rest of the descending mass. It was the body of Calvin Vaniman. At 5:20 a. m. a message was relayed ashore from rescuers that this body had been recovered. With it came the statement from Capt. Lambert Parker, of the Absecon life-saving crew, that the other four members of the crew were entangled in the wreckage in eighteen feet of water.

Soon after the plunge enormous crowds from every part of the resort had gathered along the inlet, boardwalk, and about the Vaniman cottage, just across from the hangar, at the inlet, where Mrs. Vaniman collapsed, and unconscious from the shock was in the care of a physician.

Second Flight of Year.

The flight this morning was the second that the Akron had taken this year. After tinkering all winter on the gas bag and its appurtenances, Vaniman took the contrivance out for a short flight on Saturday morning, June 1. At that time the balloon was nearly wrecked because of something which went wrong with the mechanism, but it was safely landed at the hangar without serious mishap.

This morning Mrs. Vaniman and the wives of the members of the crew had been witnessing the flight from the front veranda of the Vaniman cottage, which faced the spot where the accident occurred. Through field glasses they discerned every detail from start to finish. Mrs. Vaniman, brave to the last, stood silent and white-faced, and then begged to be taken out to the wreck.

Order was finally brought of the chaos ashore, and Counselman Cook, with A. T. Bell, secretary of the America Exhibition Company, and Walter Crall, official photographer for the Vaniman enterprise, left the shore in Cook's fast motor boat Ellen. They were trailed by a dozen other boats.

Crowd of 50,000 Looks On.

At 5:30 o'clock it was estimated that approximately 50,000 persons were congregated along the shore. Business about town was temporarily suspended, employers and employees alike forgetting their work to crowd to the inlet to look over the wreck. Nothing had gripped the citizens of this resort in all its history as had this spectacular tragedy.

Cook's boat returned to the Vaniman cottage at 7:30 o'clock, bringing word that all hands were lost. Mrs. Vaniman, who had clung to the bare chance that her husband had escaped, collapsed when the news was broken to her. A physician was summoned from the crowd and he took charge of her and of the wives of the crew. Four of these were with her, and all but one dropped over in a dead faint.

Longest Flight Last Fall.

The longest flight made in the balloon was last fall, when Vaniman took it aloft and spent the greater part of the day in the air near here. The gas in the bag was not sufficient to keep the big machine in the air for any length of time, and the aeronaut had to make several landings to replenish the supply.

In the course of the winter Vaniman had made many chances which he hoped would add to the safety and dirigibility of his craft.

In general appearance the Akron was not unlike the America, in which Walter Wellman and Vaniman attempted to cross the Atlantic Ocean in October, 1901, but there were many differences in the construction of the airship which collapsed to-day. The gas bag of the Akron was thirty feet longer than that of the America, but was smaller in diameter. The dimensions were: Length of bag, 25 feet; diameter, 42 feet. The envelope was made of a composition of rubber and was constructed in Ohio.

Soldier of Fortune.

Music teacher, opera singer, actor, photographer, balloonist, aeroplane builder, and inventor of a new type of dirigible balloon and hangar. Such are the successive steps in the career of Melvin Vaniman, the young American engineer, who, after rising from a position as a teacher of music in Illinois College to that of one of the foremost airmen of the day, met death in the machine he invented, in the element that he strove to conquer.

When newspapers two years ago carried columns on the progress of the preparations being made by a small number of men who had determined to attempt to fly across the sea in a dirigible balloon, the world at large smiled
